(a) Each party is liable in accordance with statutory law for damages caused by intent (Vorsatz) and gross negligence (grobe Fahrlässigkeit).

(b) In the event of slight negligence (einfache Fahrlässigkeit), each party is liable only for breach of a material contractual obligation, the fulfilment of which is essential for the proper performance of the Agreement and on the observance of which the other party may regularly rely (wesentliche Vertragspflicht). In such cases, each party's maximum and cumulative liability is limited to the damage that is foreseeable and typical for the type of transaction in question (vertragstypisch vorhersehbarer Schaden), which the parties agree shall not exceed the fees paid or payable by Customer for the IFS Offering in the twelve (12) months preceding the events giving rise to the claim. Each party's liability for slight negligence in breach of non-material contractual obligations is excluded.

(c) The foregoing limitations do not apply to claims resulting from injuries to life, body, or health, fraudulent concealment of a defect (arglistiges Verschweigen eines Mangels), assumption of a guarantee (Garantieübernahme), or claims under the German Product Liability Act (Produkthaftungsgesetz, ProdHaftG).

(d) To the extent each party's liability is excluded or limited, such exclusion or limitation also applies to the personal liability of its employees, workers, representatives, and vicarious agents, as well as to indemnities given.

(e) The liability period is limited to one (1) year starting with the end of the year during which the claim came into existence and the other party becomes aware (or should have become aware without gross negligence) of the circumstances giving rise to the claim. This does not apply to claims based on intent or gross negligence, claims under the German Product Liability Act (ProdHaftG), or damages arising from injuries to life, body, health, or freedom.

(f) IFS's liability arising from Section 536a(1) Alt. 1 of the German Civil Code (BGB) is limited to the damage that is foreseeable and typical for the type of transaction in question (vertragstypisch vorhersehbarer Schaden), not to exceed the fees paid or payable by Customer for the IFS Offering in the twelve (12) months preceding the events giving rise to the claim. This limitation does not apply where IFS is liable under sub-paragraph (a) above.

6.5 Modified Insolvency Termination: The right to terminate for an Insolvency Event under Section "Term & Termination" of this Master Agreement applies only to the extent not prohibited by applicable insolvency law (e.g., Section 103 InsO).

6.6 Analytics: IFS may collect, track and analyze usage, diagnostic, technical, and performance data relating to the IFS Offering for purposes of compliance verification, service operation, security, support, and product improvement, as described in Section "Verification and Analytics" of the Product Terms. To the extent such activities involve the processing of Customer's Personal Data (as defined in the DPA), IFS shall process such data only in accordance with the Agreement, the DPA, and applicable data protection law.

6.7 Warranty.

(a) The parties agree that the Documentation defines the agreed quality (vereinbarte Beschaffenheit) of the Application Software and/or SaaS Services. IFS warrants that the Application Software and/or SaaS Services will perform substantially as described in the Documentation for a period of: (i) Application Software: twelve (12) months from the Order Form start date for perpetual licenses, or throughout the Subscription Term for Subscription licenses; (ii) SaaS Services: for the term of the Order Form (the "Warranty Period").

(b) With respect to proprietary or commercial Third-Party Software forming part of the IFS Offering, IFS's warranty is limited to any warranty that the applicable third-party provider makes available. IFS will, at Customer's request, use reasonable efforts to enforce available pass-through warranty claims against the applicable third-party provider on Customer's behalf. Customer must notify IFS of any such defect promptly after discovery. This limitation applies only to defects inherent in the Third-Party Software itself; IFS remains responsible under sub-paragraph (a) for defects arising from IFS's integration of the Third-Party Software with the IFS Application Software. (c) With respect to Third-Party Software designated as free or open source software, no third-party warranty is available. IFS warrants only that it has selected and tested such components for suitability within the IFS Offering. Where a defect in an open source component causes the IFS Offering to fall below the agreed quality defined in sub-paragraph (a), IFS will address the defect through its standard Support Services, which may include patches, workarounds, or replacement of the affected component. IFS does not warrant the open source component itself beyond this obligation. (d) To the extent permitted by applicable law, IFS's liability for defects that do not affect the agreed quality as defined in sub-paragraph (a) is excluded.

6.8 Warranty Remedies. Warranty remedies are provided as part of Support Services; Customer must hold a valid Support Services agreement. If IFS breaches the warranty above, Customer's initial remedy is for IFS, in consultation with Customer, to:

(a) use reasonable efforts to cure the defect; or (b) redeliver the Application Software or restore the SaaS Services, as applicable, so that they substantially comply with the Documentation. If IFS does not cure the defect within a reasonable period set by Customer in writing (Nachfrist), Customer may: (c) terminate the applicable Software license or SaaS Services and receive a pro-rata refund of the fees paid for the terminated item, calculated based on the months remaining in the Subscription Term; or (d) reduce the fees payable for the affected IFS Offering proportionally for the period during which the defect persists (Minderung). Customer waives the right to reduce fees (Minderung) and the right of retention (Zurückbehaltungsrecht) to the extent permitted by applicable law, provided that the underlying claim is neither undisputed nor established by declaratory judgment (rechtskräftig festgestellt). Any service credits received by Customer under an applicable service level agreement for the same defect and the same period shall be credited against any fee reduction or damages claim. Warranty remedies under (a) and (b) are conditioned upon: (i) the error or defect being reasonably reproducible by IFS; (ii) the Application Software not having been modified and being used in accordance with the Software Documentation; (iii) the issue not being attributable to any non-IFS product or service, including Third-Party Software, or to any content or data stored or used by Customer; and (iv) the issue not otherwise being attributable to Customer or any third party acting on Customer's behalf.

6.9 Reverse Engineering. The restriction on reverse engineering in Section "Use Restrictions" is subject to the mandatory rights under Sections 69d and 69e of the German Copyright Act (UrhG).

6.10 Extraordinary termination right. The right of either party to terminate for cause (außerordentliche Kündigung aus wichtigem Grund) under § 314 BGB (or § 543 BGB, as applicable) remains unaffected by Sections 3.1 and 3.2.

6.11 Set-off restriction. Section 4.1 is supplemented as follows: Customer may set off against IFS's claims with undisputed or judicially established counterclaims (unbestrittene oder rechtskräftig festgestellte Gegenforderungen).

6.12 Online Terms and Conditions.

(a) Incorporation by reference. Additional terms and conditions ("T&Cs") applicable to the Agreement are hosted online and available by clicking on the hyperlinks of the Agreement.

(b) Right to update. It is acknowledged that IFS may update the T&Cs from time to time during the applicable term, it being understood the new updated terms will apply at the end of the applicable term e.g. a subscription term and this will be the case for each subsequent term (including any renewal terms). Such updates ("T&C Updates") will apply to the relevant IFS Offering under the Agreement as set forth in this Section. For the avoidance of doubt, this Section does not otherwise limit or inhibit in any way IFS's rights to make changes to or update the IFS Offerings provided under the Agreement (whether as part of the Support Services or otherwise).

(d) No increase in Customer obligations / no reduction of Customer rights. As a condition to effectiveness under the Agreement, no T&C Update will (i) materially increase Customer's payment obligations or other material obligations, (ii) materially reduce Customer's rights or remedies, or (iii) materially expand IFS's rights to use Customer Data, except to the extent required by applicable law.

(e) Effectiveness. T&C Updates will take effect for the purpose of the relevant IFS Offering under the Agreement when (i) they are posted at the URL as provided under the Agreement, and (ii) the updated T&Cs remain continuously available at that URL (or a successor URL) for at least 30 days before being applied to the Agreement (the "Posting Period"). IFS has no obligation to provide Customer with any separate notice of updates.

Any other aspects of the T&C Update will be subject to the Posting Period.
- (g) No consent or termination right. Customer's consent is not required for any T&C Update, and no right to terminate arises solely because the T&C Update has been implemented in accordance with this Section.
- (h) Version control. IFS will maintain an archive of prior versions of the T&Cs (including their effective dates) accessible online or, if no archive is maintained, by retaining prior versions in its records.
